

Display screen equipment (DSE) assessment post-foundation

This course aims to facilitate a deeper understanding of DSE assessment and problem resolution by building on the delegate's knowledge and skills gained in foundation DSE training and their DSE assessing experience.

Overview

1 day, maximum of 12 delegates per course

The aim of this course is to update and increase the knowledge of existing DSE assessors so that they are able to understand the less common problems associated with assessing DSE issues to be able to more confidently identify possible solutions. The courses are run by our qualified health professionals and/or ergonomists and provide a great opportunity for delegates to share their experiences of being DSE assessors.

Outcome

Delegates will be able to review their understanding of the DSE regulations and gain a broader understanding of anatomy, physiology and common musculoskeletal disorders. They will have an opportunity to discuss issues from their own practise and updated their knowledge of, and be able to evaluate, relevant ergonomic office accessories.

Who should attend?

This course is suitable for DSE assessors who have completed a minimum of 30 DSE assessments and have already attended a DSE foundation course or gained a similar level of knowledge through other means.

The course is not aimed at experienced occupational health advisors or therapists because it is biased towards more common musculoskeletal issues.

Content

- Review of the regulations relating to DSE
- Review of anatomy and physiology relating to the body when using DSE
- Discussion and review of the conditions that may be reported by users of computer equipment
- Review of 'best practice' when discussing working postures and the need for flexibility, not just application of strict 'rules', including discussing individual cases
- Practical review of workstation set up
- Practical review of 'ergonomic' equipment, discussing when to use and why
- Discussion of return to work scenarios

Hosted course - £895.00

You choose the date and provide the venue, usually your premises, and we provide the training and any necessary equipment.

Drop-In Course - £199.00

We organise the date, location, catering, hospitality, training and equipment. You simply turn up.

For more information, dates and bookings:

email: training@posturite.co.uk

or call: 0345 345 0010

posturite.co.uk